

National Bariatric Surgery Registry

The National Bariatric Surgery Registry (NBSR) is the result of a collaboration between ALSGBI (Association of Laparoscopic Surgeons of Great Britain and Ireland), AUGIS (Association of Upper Gastrointestinal Surgery), BOMSS (British Obesity & Metabolic Surgery Society) and Dendrite Clinical Systems.

The key objective of the NBSR is to accumulate sufficient data to allow the publication of a comprehensive report on outcomes following bariatric surgery. The publication of the results of English bariatric centres took place in July 2013.

Both the Welsh Institute of Metabolic and Obesity Surgery (WIMOS) and the Welsh Weight Loss Surgery Clinic submit data on their outcome results to the NBSR, but at present only the results from bariatric centres in England have been made available to the public.

It is anticipated that data from the devolved nations' bariatric centres in Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland will be published in the NBSR website in the very near future. As the only accredited bariatric surgical team operating in Wales, we are proud of our high success rates and we welcome the publication of our centres' outcome data. As soon as the Welsh results are available, clicking on the NBSR logo will link directly from this website.
